About The Property

Heddfan is a well-presented 3 / 4-bedroom home in the village of Aberbanc, offering far more accommodation than might initially be expected. Set over three floors, with a sun room added to the ground floor and a separate garden office outside, the layout has been adapted to provide plenty of flexible space for family life, working from home and storage.

A particularly useful feature is the off-road parking, with a generous driveway providing space for up to four vehicles, together with an electric vehicle charging point. The property occupies an end position within the development, with an open aspect along one side giving the house a little more breathing room than many homes of this style.

The front door opens into the entrance hallway, with stairs rising to the first floor and access into the living room. This is a well-proportioned main reception room, with a bay window to the front and plenty of room for both seating and additional furniture.

From here, the accommodation flows through into the kitchen, creating a practical connection between the main living areas. The kitchen stretches across the rear portion of the original house and provides a good amount of fitted storage and worktop space, together with room for the usual appliances. Double doors open directly onto the garden, making this an easy room to connect with the outside during warmer months.

Alongside the kitchen is a separate utility room, keeping laundry and everyday household jobs away from the main kitchen. A ground-floor WC sits beyond the utility, while a further door connects through to the sun room.

The sun room is a valuable addition to the ground floor and gives the house a second reception space. At approximately 4.55m x 2.99m, it is substantial enough to be used in different ways, whether as a family room, playroom, dining space or somewhere to sit separately from the main living room. Windows to the side and rear bring in natural light, with easy access directly out to the garden.

Details Continued:

Upstairs, the first-floor landing leads to three bedrooms, a dressing room and the family bathroom.

Bedroom one is a double room with its own en-suite shower room. The en-suite includes a shower enclosure, WC and wash hand basin, providing useful separation from the main family bathroom.

Bedroom two is another good-sized bedroom, while bedroom three also provides comfortable accommodation and is currently presented as a child's room.

One of the less expected features on this floor is the separate dressing room (which has been used as a bedroom in the past). Rather than relying entirely on wardrobes within the bedrooms, this room provides dedicated clothes and shoe storage and is currently fitted out to make good use of the available space. It could equally suit alternative uses depending on requirements.

The family bathroom has been updated in a clean, neutral style and is fitted with a bath with shower over, WC, wash hand basin and fitted storage.

A further staircase rises from the dressing room to the second floor. Set within the attic space, this is a generous and flexible attic room is currently used as a bedroom, with roof windows providing natural light and enough floor area for substantial bedroom furniture. Its position away from the other bedrooms gives it a slightly more independent feel and makes particularly good use of the upper floor of the house.

Externally:

Outside, the property continues to offer more than expected. The driveway to the front provides off-road parking for up to four vehicles and includes an electric car charging point, while gated access leads around the side of the house.

The garden is mainly lawn, with paved areas immediately around the property providing space for outdoor furniture and seating. Raised planters have been added for growing vegetables and produce, and there is still lawn available for children, pets or general garden use. The position of the property also allows for a more open outlook from parts of the garden and house.

Perhaps the most useful addition outside is the substantial timber garden building. Rather than simply being used as a shed, part of this has been converted into a dedicated home office, with windows, flooring, lighting and underfloor heating, creating a comfortable workspace that can be used throughout the year. There is plenty of room for a desk and office furniture, and for anyone regularly working from home, having a workspace physically separate from the main house is a real advantage. The building also retains useful storage space.

Heddfan benefits from air source heat pump heating, together with mains electricity, mains water and mains sewerage.

Overall, this is a practical and adaptable four-bedroom home which has been thoughtfully altered to make better use of the available space. The combination of four bedrooms, en-suite, dressing room, sun room and separate heated garden office gives considerably more flexibility than might initially be expected. Add in off-road parking for up to four vehicles, an EV charging point and an enclosed garden, and it should suit a broad range of buyers looking around Aberbanc, Newcastle Emlyn and this part of West Wales.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

Aberbanc is a small Ceredigion village approximately four miles east of Newcastle Emlyn, with the A475 providing a straightforward connection towards the town. Newcastle Emlyn acts as the main local centre for many of the surrounding smaller communities and provides a good selection of independent shops, cafés, pubs and everyday services.

The wider area sits within the Teifi Valley, with Newcastle Emlyn positioned on the River Teifi and the surrounding countryside characterised by farmland, wooded valleys and smaller rural communities. From here there is also good access west towards Cenarth, Cardigan and Cardigan Bay, while Llandysul and Lampeter are accessible in the opposite direction.
